Adelaide Crows v Richmond

Adelaide Oval - 4.40pm (Saturday)

Tigers to maul Crows to end the worst season in club's history

by Thomas McLean

Richmond will look to cement a top four finish and a double chance in the finals with a win over Adelaide in the last round of the home and away season. An unlikely fourth win in a row for Adelaide will help them avoid the first wooden spoon in the club's history. (In any other year, winning three matches in September nearly guarantees you the title of Premier.) Both clubs held their opponents goalless in the first quarter last weekend, to set up convincing wins, Adelaide over Carlton and Richmond too strong for Geelong.

The Crows led by five goals at the first change and while Carlton reduced the final margin to 16 points, they were never a genuine threat. Bryce Gibbs, playing his final game, finished with 27 disposals and no doubt will leave Crows fans questioning why he wasn't given more opportunities in the tricolours.

Some green shoots are appearing at West Lakes with Lachie Sholl having the best game of his short career to finish with 24 touches and two goals. Harry Schoenberg (21 disposals) and Andrew McPherson (17) are looking more and more comfortable on the AFL stage. Up forward Elliott Himmelberg, Chayce Jones and Shane McAdam combined to kick four of Adelaide's goals. These youngsters were supported by in the middle by Matt Crouch (28 possessions) and Rory Laird.

Richmond were clinical in their victory over Geelong, restricting them to only one goal to three-quarter time. The Tigers should have won by more than their 26 point margin, but were inaccurate in front of goal. Jack Riewoldt found some form on the eve of the finals, finishing with four goals. Dustin Martin (19 touches), Shai Bolton (18) and Jayden Short (16) were key contributors in what was a team effort that would have pleased Damien Hardwick.

Heartbreakingly Ivan Soldo ruptured both his anterior cruciate ligament and medial ligament and will miss the next 12 months. Young South Australian Callum Coleman-Jones (Unley Jets) could well have found himself rucking in the finals if he hadn't been out enjoying the Gold Coast nightlife to earn a 10 game suspension.

Despite Adelaide's recent improvement, Richmond's skill and experience will earn them the four points and put them in a strong position to win back to back Premierships. From Adelaide's perspective, could Taylor Walker be playing his final match before joining Bryce Gibbs in early retirement?

Richmond by 37-48 points

Collingwood v Port Adelaide

Gabba - 6.75pm (Monday)

Pies to test Power before finals

by Jack Kovacic

Port Adelaide will be looking to lock in its first minor premiership since 2004 on Monday night when it takes on Collingwood. The Power secured a top two finish and two home finals when it beat Essendon by 50-points last Saturday.

The Bombers came out of the blocks early, and that combined with some goalkicking inaccuracy from Charlie Dixon saw the visitors leading at quarter time.

While it was a good first quarter for Essendon, the game completely changed from there. Port doubled Essendon's inside 50's in the second term, and also had 51 more disposals on their way to five goals to zip for the quarter. Ken Hinkley would've been most pleased by the fact that Port had a season-high 10 different goalkickers, despite the game being played in the wet.

There are probably just two spots in Port's best 22 up for grabs with Steven Motlop and Kane Farrell the two that are likely to be on the chopping block when Zak Butters returns from suspension, while Riley Bonner will likely make way when Ryan Burton returns from injury. These two won't play against the Pies so it will be the final audition for a few Port players before finals.

Port's trio of midfield bulls (Travis Boak, Ollie Wines and Tom Rockliff) continued their great form and are looking primed and ready to go for a run at the premiership. All three of the Power's gun midfielders had 26 or more disposals and also all kicked a goal. They will get one final tune-up on Monday night when they come up against the best opposition midfield group they've faced in over a month. Port have bashed up younger and less experienced midfields in recent weeks, but will be up against the likes of Adam Treloar, Scott Pendelbury and Taylor Adams, as well as Brodie Grundy in the ruck.

Collingwood come into this game in good form, beating Gold Coast by 22-points last round. With Jordan De Goey (four goals) returning to the side, the Magpies forward set-up looked completely different. Mason Cox also looked the most threatening he has in a long time and chipped in two goals.

Ken Hinkley will have to make some big calls as to which Power defenders get these big jobs. Captain Tom Jonas could the best option to shut down De Goey, while Trent McKenzie will likely get the job on Cox.

With a top two spot secured, Hinkley could look to rest some players that are carrying niggling injuries. There is a pre-finals bye, but Port and Collingwood do have the shortest break before finals of any team.

Nathan Buckley won't have this same luxury as the Magpies can still finish anywhere between 6 and 8. Of course if Collingwood did finish sixth, it wouldn't get a home final in the normal sense, but it would be able to have the choice of a number of venues which would be crucial if they came up against West Coast.

Both teams will be relishing the chance to play at the Gabba, given that it is the same venue the Grand Final will be played at in just over a months' time. Collingwood have allowed the least points of any AFL team this year and have the ability to shut down Port's forward line. If this happens, Hinkley will be hoping for another big spread of goalkickers.

That being said, Port are no slouch defensively either, having allowed the second least points of any team this season.

Port has won four in a row going to this match-up but with Collingwood starting to get some key players back on the park and Port not having much to play for, it could be due for a loss. This should be a ripping clash and I'm tipping the Pies to get over the line in a tight one. Collingwood by 1-12 points.

West Adelaide v Eagles

Eagles to keep on rolling along with a comfortable win at Richmond

by Jayden Hill

Again, what another fantastic round of SANFL football. We are now coming to the end of the minor round season and some teams will be looking to do some damage in the final series coming up. While, other teams will be thinking about next seasons prospects. One team that is looking forward to the finals series is the Eagles, who are sitting pretty on top of the ladder and are firm favourites to take out this year's cup.

The Eagles, who have been on top the ladder all season, only had one hiccup for the year, where they lost to the Redlegs by 40 points in round 10. However, Coach Jayde Sheedy has overcome that shock loss with his team coming off two impressive wins, in the past fortnight. The Eagles were too good for the second placed Roosters in round 11 and followed it up with a polarizing 78-point win against the Bays last Saturday.

Jordan Foote had a standout game on the weekend, collecting a game high 32 disposals and kicking three goals. The 24-year-old lead the game in kicks with 24, as well as leading the tackle count with 12. Number 35 Joseph Sinor has been outstanding for the Eagles in the past three weeks, averaging 27 touches, including leading the eagles in disposals in Round 10 and 11. Forward James Rowe has kicked 32 goals so far this season and is only two goals behind Glenelg's Liam Mcbean in the race for the Ken Farmer medal.

The Pleasing thing for Coach Sheedy would be the large number of players that have performed well this season. Players such as Jimmy Toumpas, Jack Hayes, Sam Rowland and James Tsitas have contributed for the Eagles this season. The Eagles in the last three weeks have won the inside 50 count by an average of 20.3 entries and have been entering the arc with ease. The Classy Eagles will be looking for a big win this weekend.

Unfortunately for the Bloods, they haven't had a season quite like the Eagles in 2020. Coach Gavin Colville in the next few games will be having one eye on what next year's prospects will bring. West Adelaide sit on the bottom of the ladder and are coming off two heavy defeats by the Panthers and the Bays. Even though it hasn't been a year West Adelaide supporters will want to remember, there have been some promising signs and things to look forward to leading into next year.

Kaine Stevens has been solid this season averaging 23.8 disposals for the season, as well as 24-year-old Brett turner who has averaged 20 disposals this season. Dallas Wilmore lead the Bloods in the disposal count with 27 against the Bays in round 11, also collecting a game high 23 kicks and taking 11 marks. Jordan Boyle has also had a solid season for West Adelaide, averaging 24 touches. Youngsters such as Murray Waite, Elliot Dunkin, Andrea Parella, Connor Fairlie and Isaac Johnson have also contributed for the Bloods this season and are the future for the Bloods moving forward.

The Bloods have challenged teams this season, including the second placed Roosters who they almost beat in Round eight. The Bloods also defeated the Bays in round four so they have had promising signs this season. The Eagles haven't beaten the Bloods at Richmond Oval since Round one 2018 and the Bloods defeated them by 37 points last season. However, the Eagles will continue on their merry way and will be too good at City Mazda Stadium. Eagles by 49-60 points

Sturt v North Adelaide

Peter Motley Oval - 12:40pm

The Roosters are eying top spot and will end the finals aspirations of the Blues

by William Clemente

In what is to be an intriguing thirteenth round of South Australian Football; Sturt will be hosting the North Adelaide Roosters at Peter Motley Oval on Saturday afternoon. With two rounds remaining to play in this unorthodox COVID-struck season, both sides will battle it out with a lot to play for. The visitors in North Adelaide are expected to clinch victory at Peter Motley Oval.

At the concluding end in what has been a bizarre but thrilling home and away season, Sturt and North Adelaide both have goals they must pursue before the season concludes. The Roosters are currently sitting in second position on the ladder and are two points behind the league leader, Woodville West Torrens. Because of that, the Roosters would be extremely determined to close the home and away season with two victories to give themselves the greatest possibility to be minor premiers heading into the finals.

On the other end of the fence, the Double Blues are four points (two victories) off a finals spot. Currently sitting in sixth spot and trailing fourth spot by four points to Glenelg (sitting in fourth), and Norwood (sitting in fifth). It is an extremely difficult goal to achieve for Sturt, but it is not an impossibility. Obviously, two convincing victories to close the home and away season and some luck with other results of fixtures will grant them a finals spot, this means they must defeat the Roosters on Saturday afternoon in front of their faithful.

Last round, the Double Blues faced off against the Redlegs away from home at Coopers Stadium. This was a crucial fixture for Sturt to be victories to stamp their finals credentials, but they suffered a narrow three-point loss in a nail-bitting display of football. This loss has made finals football more unlikely for the Double Blues but not an impossibility as mentioned. As the scoreboard suggested, it was a tight and contestant contest. After a dominant opining quarter by Sturt, a goalless second term is what potentially costed them the game as Norwood fought back. The second half was a real scrap, goal for goal, but the second quarter let down the Double Blues without a doubt. Forward, Mark Evans was their greatest contributor to the scoreboard kicking three goals and one behind. James Battersby was their greatest ball winner in midfield, notching 28 disposals. Abe Davis also played a great game continuing his individual form, with 25 possessions and a goal.

North Adelaide put on a great display last weekend at Prospect Oval in front of their home fans, defeating the struggling Central Districts by 32 points. This ended a two-game losing streak for the Roosters and it was much needed as it will give them the confidence to overcome the Double Blues this weekend. North only led the Dogs by eight-points at half time, but the Roosters flapped their wing in the second half as they got away in comfort kicking 10 goals. They suffered a slight scare in the final term as Centrals slotted seven kicks between the big sticks, but the damage had been done. William Coombe was excellent in the forward line for the Roosters as he kicked four goals. Campbell Coombe was astonishing in the midfield notching 34 possessions and he applied excellent midfield pressure as he laid ten tackles. Jarrod Almond had a great day on the park as well (27 disposals, 15 marks, one goal).

Both sides will be hungry for a victory on Saturday afternoon and we will see a thrilling display of football. The Roosters will be pushing for top spot and the Double Blues will try their very best to reach the finals; they both have a lot to play for. However, the Roosters are expected to wet their beaks at Peter Motley Oval and enjoy a victory, putting Sturt's season to a disappointing close.

South Adelaide v Norwood

Flinders University Stadium - 12:40pm

Panthers to finally end Norwood's season

by Kym Kelly

Most games this week gave expected results, with the Eagles and North cementing the top 2 spots the battle for 3rd and 4th still remains alive with the Redlegs sitting one game out of finals the next two weeks will play out to be a tight finish. Norwood will need to win both games to fall into the top 4 also relying on other results. The Bays will seem to have the easiest draw with Centrals and Sturt. Norwood have South and west while the real test is for the Panthers who will have the chance to lock it in this week against the Legs followed up with North in two weeks time.

After a slip up 2 weeks ago against Sturt the injury ridden Panthers looked almost cooked for the year, being at the game they were chasing all day and really struggled to get their running game going on the smaller Unley Oval. Friday night saw South rebound into great form with a crushing win over West Adelaide catapulting them back into third spot. With players returning and both games to be played at home on the large Noarlunga Oval, will be looking to get some form going into finals. Friday night was a slow start for South with the Bloods going into Quarter time on top, and that's where it ended for Westies. South went on and kicked 16 of the next 22 goals, and again could have been more if not for in efficiency with the ball. West were dominated by Souths mids again who this year have been amongst the best in the competition. Yet again veteran Joel Cross played some great footy gaining another 26 disposals and a further 3 goals to his tally this year at the age of 33 averaging at least 1 goal per game is proving to be a headache for the opposition each week and sure to poll well in the Magarey medal. Joe Haines across half back again was flawless and is having a great year backed up by Broadbent, Heaslip, Schwarz and Ruckman Paul Hunter who is proving to be a great asset after coming back last year with Adelaide. Hunter was too much for the young ruck Andre Parrella who looks like he may be a shining light for the Bloods as he gains more and more experience.

West Adelaide will be disappointed after leading up until 10 minutes into the second quarter, as mentioned before South really took control of the game from then on showing the crowd under lights Friday night. They are capable playing some great running football and come finals time may be hard to catch on the bigger ovals.

This weeks game against the Redlegs is crucial for both teams and will no doubt have a finals type atmosphere. Norwood's form this year has been inconsistent and are hard to read. Two weeks ago going down to struggling Centrals and this week only just getting over the line against Sturt who it must be said seem to on the improve. Yet three rounds ago managed to knock off ladder leaders the Eagles. Last time these two teams met was round 7 at the Parade that saw the Legs get on top by just 4 points seeming to control that game in the hit outs and clearances, South were without ruck Paul Hunter that day and this week may be a different story at Noarlunga. Both sides capable of kicking a winning score with strong marking forwards and goal kicking mids. Both have considerable injury list, it will be a mid field battle Norwood's Ryan Bastinac, Dom Barry, Richard Douglas v Cross, Schwarz, Heaslip. Liam Fitt out for the season with a knee is another blow for South but the return of Tom Highmore to get some game time back into his legs comes at the right time for the Panthers. Im looking forward to seeing some of South's younger brigade this week create some run on the larger oval and take things to the next level. Hopefully the Panthers are hungry for finals. Keep an eye out for a huge game from Hayden Sampson who has already had a great season for the Panthers. I think South will end Norwood's chances this week as the Bays will win both of their remaining games keeping the Redlegs are sitting fifth. South by 1-12 points

Glenelg v Central District

Ach Group Stadium - 2:40pm

Doggies to dent Glenelg's finals chances

by Nick Blewett

This is a danger game for Glenelg this week, after they were swept under the rug by Woodville West Torrens, to the tune of 12 goals last week. It puts the Eagles within touching distance of the minor premiership, and it puts self-inflicted heat on Glenelg to finish in front of South Adelaide and secure a double chance, which they will surely need even more so this year than last.

Central District are Glenelg's opponents this week. The bulldogs were unable to pull off back-to-back upsets for some late reward in the season, thanks largely to an ill-disciplined third quarter against the Roosters. The competitions' best teams could hardly prevent defeat if they conceded eight goals in a quarter; tellingly this season, despite a compelling win last fortnight, the Dogs are not the competitions' best, and let all eight through unanswered.

Their 3rd quarter flooding was bookended by a careless biff in the goal square, and some sloppy guarding of the man who had just put them to the sword, Will Coombe. Mitch Harvey found Coombe on his own inside 50 from a boundary kick in, over the top of a dozen dogs' defenders, and he kicked truly for his 4th goal in 40 minutes of footy, in a quarter where four Roosters became multiple goalkickers.

There were a select few positives for the Bulldogs, with John Butcher standing tall in attack for back to back weeks, and Jackson Kelly bursting past several players in the midfield going inside 50, but they just didn't get it there enough; 15 times fewer than their opponents in fact.

The Eagles had a dozen goals before Glenelg had two in their match last week, with Jordan Foote playing a ripper game. He had two early goals, then produced my favorite score involvement of the day with a clever tap to Jackson Lee for a goal that immediately preceded his own third major. Glenelg were also untidy in defense, often allowing the Eagles to centre the ball at right angles to a player on his own inside fifty, removing any degree of difficulty in their set shots; the Eagles had stacks of simple shots on goal to produce their commanding win.

Whichever team can get their defence in order will be the winner in the final game of Round 13 this weekend. Both teams have shown efficient attack in their respective wins last fortnight, with the Dogs looking as good as any team bringing the ball forward. Marsh gathered at full tilt and goaled against Norwood, Jordan Obrien was fending off in the goal square, and Marcus Barreau provided penetrating kicks to John Butcher's wheelhouse.

Only three men goaled for Glenelg last week. Often Liam McBean is one of those, and the bays simply need more opportunities for their forwards to collect from his doorstep. They had 70 fewer touches from an even supply in the ruck, were out marked, outtackled and were hustled out from the contest. They lost the inside 50 count almost two-to-one and could only kick four goals from 12 attempts; running at 30 percent accuracy in front of goal will not produce the much-needed win against the Bulldogs.

Rest assured Central District will be eager to atone for a winnable game last week, even as visitors, so a win here will go a long way for Glenelg's title defence. Both teams come into this match with a clean bill of health, relatively speaking, and this could make for a hard-fought contest. I predict Glenelg to be defeated. Central District by 1-12 points

Port Adelaide

Having occupied the top of the ladder for the entire season, the Power have shown that the system of footy they lay is good enough to beat any team. For years, Port's consistency was in question, but now they have finally shown their rhythm and form throughout the season. Port are most effective when they dictate the play and control the tempo against other teams. When the ball is trapped into their forward half, almost no team can break through that wall of defence. However, their entire game relies on their forwards. When players like Charlie Dixon or Robbie Gray are double or even triple teamed, the Power find it difficult to overcome these obstacles and fall into inefficiency inside 50. If Port can continue to get rewards for their efforts, then the team can feed off of that momentum and beat anyone. The real worry for Port is making sure their forwards remain active and efficient enough for their system of play to keep intact.

Brisbane Lions

There's not much to criticise about the Brisbane Lions considering their extremely strong form and consistency this season too. Their breakout year came last season, but this year the Lions have taken a giant leap in the league by securing a top 2 position on the ladder throughout most of the season. Their energy and pressure is unmatched, and their results against top 8 teams has been more than successful. The only reason to doubt whether this team can win the Premiership is by focusing on the age of their players. Compared to West Coast and Richmond, who won the last two Grand Finals, the Lions have a considerably younger team. But it seems that their passion and aggression stems through the fearlessness and discipline of their youth players, accompanied by the guidance of some veteran teammates. Maybe the only real concern is their adaptability. If a team can match or even overcome the pressure of Brisbane, do the Lions have other ways in which they can play their attacking style of footy?

Richmond

Now that most of Richmond's injury woes have been healed, they're now one of the most dangerous teams in the league. Their defense is impossible to break through, and their midfield remains lethal. Although Dustin Martin and Tom Lynch haven't had an exceptional season, like we've seen them have before, the entire Tigers team seems to be the most balanced in the league, with an even spread of disposals among players. Instead of having one or two players that rack up 30+ disposals, Richmond players share the ball with all their teammates and play as one single unit. The biggest downfall to having one of the best defenses in the league seems to be scoring goals for the Tigers. Most of Richmond's wins this year have come from scoring 70 points or less, keeping teams goalless in multiple quarters. However, it seems that when teams score just 80 or more points against them, the Tigers really struggle to match their opponents scoring efforts. If Richmond can continue to keep teams below 6-7 goals in a match, chances are they'll win the Premiership. But against teams like Brisbane and Port, conceding goals just seems to be a given.

Rebuilding stage for Adelaide Crows

by
Foti Mantis

The Crows, who attained their first win of the season against Hawthorn last week, showed a glimpse of the prideful footy that we've seen them play in the past. Crows play their best when they show that type of aggression like they did, and most importantly, when they start to dominate clearances. However, it is no mystery that both the Crows and Hawks are undergoing a rebuild stage with their sights keen on the AFL Draft.

Depending if the Crows trade or not, they will get this year's first pick in the draft. However, they probably could not have chosen a worst year to get it. Although South Australian football has continued, other states, like Victoria and New South Wales, have cancelled their local and state competitions. That means the Crows will have a limited choice of players to consider, and will probably have to use their pick to fill in a hole in their squad, rather than choosing the most promising and talented player.

As for trades and transfers, the Crows will probably lose a few more key players. Although the Tex has not been in the best form, he is still an important player for the Crows who acts as the glue of their forward line. Brad Crouch, on the other hand, is on the ropes. No one questions the fact that he is a star midfielder, but I think he's done all he can at the Crows, and it would be a waste of talent for the young gun to remain with Adelaide through a rebuilding phase. And, as Crouch will be a restricted free agent, the Crows could end up being compensated with the second pick in the draft too. Also, it seems Rory Atkins has already expressed his interest in free agency, adding to the list of key players the Crows will lose. But, to reiterate, these are, or will be, important moves for the Crows in their rebuilding stage.

Having debuted the most number of players for any team this year, the Crows have shown that their top priority is to advance youth players to the first team for experience and improvement. Players like Will Hamill, Lachlan Scholl, Shane McAdam, Andy McPherson and Harry Schoenberg are sure to be names that we will see in a few years when the Crows grow passed this rebuilding stage. To add to this, the Crows are looking at Jackson Hately from the Giants, who seems to be a young midfielder that isn't getting any game time in Sydney.

This will definitely remain a theme through the post-season, as the Crows aim to make their youth the core of the team. As for the rest of this season, I think Adelaide can muster one more win. It won't come easy, but it's crucial for the confidence of the players, and will give fans something to be happy about for this dreadful season.

Amato's 5th Quarter

All good things must come to an end. Yes…even you Hawthorn

by
Daniel Emilio Amato

The Hawthorn Football Club, are now for the first time in almost two decades, one of the laughing stocks of the AFL. Think back to just five years ago when they defeated the West Coast Eagles by eight goals in the 2015 Grand Final, completing their three-peat… it seemed nothing could ever bring them down. They would be at the top forever.

Since then however, they have seen the moving on or retirements of some of their greatest players and premiership heroes; Bradley Hill, Brian Lake, Cyril Rioli, David Hale, Luke Hodge, Jarryd Roughead, Jordan Lewis Sam Mitchell and several others. Since their third consecutive premiership, they have missed the finals three of the last four seasons and are now sitting third bottom with just four wins, their lowest tally since Alastair Clarkson's first season at the helm in 2005. A prime of example of 'all good things must come to an end.'

After a promising 3-1 start to this abnormal 2020 season, Alastair Clarkson seemed to be getting the very best out of this average Hawthorn side, but since then the club has conjured just one win from its previous eleven attempts and now sit 16th and just one win ahead of wooden spoon contenders North Melbourne and Adelaide.

Nothing seems to have worked for the Hawks this season, their midfield doesn't gel at all. With Tom Mitchell still gathering possessions, but not having much impact on the result, James Worpel and Jaegar O'Meara not necessarily declining, but not advancing their games to any great lengths and a forward line that seems to be missing the presence of Jarryd Roughead, with the major goal kicker being Jack Gunston with 27, the next highest being Chad Wingard with only 18. The Hawks as a unit are 12th or lower per game for scores disposals, tackles, inside 50s, clearances and marks… so they struggle to get the ball and when they use it, rarely does it result in sufficient scoring.

It seems the club tried to re-emulate what they did a decade ago, by recruiting mature-age talent from other clubs. Ben McEvoy, Brian Lake, David Hale Shaun Burgoyne, Jack Gunston, Josh Gibson and the like all played major parts in their premiership success. As a football club you don't always get it right, but what have the acquisitions of Chad Wingard, Jaegar O'Meara, Jarman Impey, Jonathon Patton and Tom Scully to advance their premiership credentials? While Impey has been solid, and the injury factor with Patton can be a valid excuse, the second attempt at recycling players has failed thus far. Alastair Clarkson seems to be frustrated at his team's inability to remain competitive for long enough, taking shots at the opposition game plans in his press conferences. They were certainly good enough to defeat your club, Clarko?

Amato's 5th Quarter

All good things must come to an end. Yes…even you Hawthorn

by
Daniel Emilio Amato

No one can deny Hawthorn's legacy, the dynasty of 2011-2016 was an incredible chapter in this remarkable club's history… but those days are over now. With Ben Stratton and Paul Puopolo adding to the retirements, it seems this club will need to stay at the bottom for a few seasons before it can realistically return to where it belives it should be.

As the saying goes; "All good things must come to an end." You can't expect to be at the top forever, Hawthorn need to focus their attention to the draft and utilising their number three (currently) draft pick to bring in a young man, develop him into a superstar and focus on 2022-2025. The next few seasons, unless Clarkson has one last miracle up his sleeve, may be tough for Hawthorn fans used to the upmost success.

Adaptive coaching does not equal soft coaching

by Kayla Voss

I was sitting in a coffee shop last Friday morning, reading the sports section of the paper, before coming across an article by Kane Cornes. In his words: "soft bosses who give in to precious players don't succeed in football". He believes AFL coaches need "to embrace old school toughness".

Kane Cornes started his career in 2001 at Port Adelaide. He played against some of the toughest teams in the early 2000s, with coaches to match their ruthless approach. However, we are not in the early 2000's anymore and the coach-player relationship has evolved. Of course there needs to be a level of toughness. Coaches, more than ever, need to earn the respect of the players to get results. Yet, reviving old school coaching techniques will only cause coaches to lose their players and produce unfavourable results.

Social media is an overwhelming influence in the modern world as its design can cause mental health problems for any of us. In particular, people like AFL players who are in the public eye can experience this effect even more. The constant comments and opinions from fans, former players, coaches and media personnel can become too much for today's players. It is not difficult to understand why. It was much easier to tune out others opinions of your team and performance when platforms like Facebook, Instagram and Twitter did not exist.

Players from the 2000s era have taught us exactly why old school coaching techniques are no longer effect on modern playing groups. Michael Voss, Nathan Buckley, Justin Leppitsch and Damien Hardwick are prime examples of the importance of evolving with the 'times'. Nathan Buckley and Damien Hardwick are proof of the difference coaching techniques make on team performance.

Nathan Buckley was one of the toughest leaders in the late 90s and early 2000s era. His opponents and teammates have all commented on his intensity and focus as a player. When he was named Senior Coach of the Collingwood Football Club, Buckley used the same mentality. However, the response from his players was underwhelming and worrying for Collingwood fans. Today, coaches are tasked with the responsibility to create connections and build relationships with their players, while also gaining their respect. Nathan Buckley focused more on his empathy as a coach to make that connection with his players and the results speak for themselves. Even though they have not won a premiership, they made the decider in 2018 and have been a competitive finals side for a few years now.

Damien Hardwick is another successful example of this new, modern-day coaching mentality. He has led his Richmond team to two premierships in the last three seasons and has addressed how creating a 'family club' environment contributed greatly to their success.

The AFL 2020 season is a perfect example of what clubs are prioritising within their football environments. Hubs have created opportunities for players and coaching staff to develop and build relationships with each other. Those teams who have embraced these opportunities are proving its benefits with successful results.

The modern-day game is a completely different environment than it was 10 to 20 years ago. Relationships and connections are the new forefront of football clubs to achieve successful results. Coach and player relationships are more important than ever to create safe and supportive environments for players.

Stop and Go

Foti Mantis

In the last few years, Australian Football has taken a frightening path towards becoming a stop-and-go game. One could argue that it has always been a type of game that is centered around winning stoppages and controlling possession through marks. But, when you think of the term 'footy,' and maybe even when you try to describe the sport to an unfamiliar spectator, what comes to mind is the excitement, speed and aggressiveness associated with what some would call 'a dangerous sport.'

When we think of footy, we don't think of stoppages. We think of counter-attacking football, players with elite speed, teams with incredible ball movement; but, most especially, we think of goals.

The worry for fans of footy is whether the AFL is trying to mould Australia's national sport into a replica of American Football. The NFL (National Football League) is one of the most watched sports in the world and millions of people tune in to the Super Bowl on TV every year. On that same day, some of the world's biggest brands sponsor the event and pay millions of dollars for a single commercial during the breaks. The half-time show alone is enough for the event to attract global attention, especially on social media platforms like Twitter and YouTube. From the AFL's perspective, this is something that Australia should be aiming towards. In this case, they are right. But it is a fine line between global exposure and the ruin of a national sport.

As mentioned before, footy is a unique sport in the sense that it asks players to put themselves on the line for their team's success (without protective gear). However, the sport has begun to ask players to do something else; that is, play competitively, but control your aggression. As a player, it's difficult to enforce that type of message into your performance. Aggression is an important part of this sport, and the constant rule changes to 'protect' players seems to be doing more harm to the game than good.

Disregarding this season, the amount of goals scored in each game has been dropping dramatically. In 2018, the AFL's average scores were the lowest ever seen for 52 years (83.1 points per game). Unless it's a total blowout, you won't see a game where both teams kick 20 goals in a competitive match of footy. Gone are those days. Instead, now it's considered lucky if a single game can consist of 20 goals (in total).

With this in mind, it's important that we recognize what a 'stop-and-go' style of play could do to he game. Alas, these continuing reinforcements of 'protective footy' rules do two things: slow down the pace of the game by rewarding more free kicks, resulting in less goals; and, most concerningly, pushes us closer towards a mimic of American-style Football.

Is the Brownlow Medal really the best individual honour?

by Kayla Voss

The Brownlow Medal is AFL's night of all nights. It has all the glitz and glamour of a red carpet event as players, partners, AFL staff, coaches, and former winners come together to celebrate. As viewers we speculate, perhaps placing bets between families and friends, about who will take out the medal. We judge every dress that walks down the red carpet, vocalising our opinions to those watching with us. Most of all, it is a night to reflect on the season that was and kicking off the excitement of Grand Final week.

However, while we hype up the night and the event is celebrated in style, is it a true reflection of who played the most consistent and compelling season? The Brownlow medal is an award presented to a player who received the most votes according to the umpires. While the umpires are a critical part of the game, are they necessarily the best people to determine the best player for the season? The field umpires are heavily involved in the game, but it is not their job to study other teams and players. Their opinions and voting decisions are dictated only by what they see, which you can argue is not the most credible voting source. Umpires are focused on enforcing the rules of the game, and even then they don't get it right 100 per cent of the time.

It is a fair argument to suggest that coaches and players are in a better position to determine the most valuable player of the season. Sure, they are involved in how the game unfolds, and more aware of the oppositions movements. But, if anything, it is the extensive analysis that coaches and players do before, during and after that puts them in the best position.

Players and coaches awards already exist. The Leigh Matthews Trophy and the AFL Coaches Association Champion Player of the Year are determined by the players and coaches respectively. So why is the Brownlow Medal considered the AFL's highest individual honour? As a player, I imagine being voted by your peers and expert coaching staff throughout the AFL would feel like a greater achievement. If the same player won all three awards every year then this argument is pointless, but the awards often have different results. For example, in the past 20 years, the Brownlow medallist winner/s and the Leigh Matthews Trophy winner were different (in the same season) 11 times. The differing results certainly suggest different approaches in determining the AFL's most valuable player.

Either way the Brownlow Medal is an AFL tradition that will evolve with our game, and the prestige of the night cannot be argued, even if it is influenced. It is a night which celebrates the best players of our game, while also including the legends of old. As the 2020 season draws closer to finals, the Brownlow Medal predictions will start firing up. It will certainly be a Brownlow to remember as COVID will change the dynamic of the night.
